"Are you coming?" she asked from the doorway, already holding her coat and the lamp.
"Yes."
"Now?"
"In a minute."
"The tide will not wait for you, and neither will I, so make up your mind about it."
"Fine."